

About the Authors

Godfrey Chikwore is a Research Associate with the University of South Africa, College of Economic and Management Sciences. He is also a Senior Research Fellow, University of Zimbabwe, Centre for Applied Social Sciences.

Patience Chikwore is an instructor for Education and Child Development, within the Faculty of Education at Great Zimbabwe University.

John Max Chinyanganya is a senior lecturer for Peace and Security Studies at the University of Zimbabwe.

Codelia Govha-Dhodho has been a lecturer of History since 2010 and writes on social and economic history of Zimbabwe. She has a keen interest on contributing to the historiography of minority people. The “Impact of Handicrafts on Economic Development: A Case of Bulawayo Kraal Village” focuses on a BaTonga village in the Zambezi Valley. Codelia attained a Master of Arts in African History at the University of Zimbabwe in 2007. She also possesses a Master of Arts in Theology because she is a pastor since 2009. Currently, Codelia is working on her PhD in History on the social and economic history of the BaTonga of Binga.

Orippah Gatsi is a Part time lecturer at The Catholic University of Zimbabwe in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. Her area of expertise is Gender and Development. She is a doctoral student at Binary University of Management and Entrepreneurship in Malaysia. She also holds a Master of Science Degree- Development Studies (WUA) and a Bachelor of Science Degree- Sociology and Gender Development (WUA).

Innocent Rambakutongwa Madenga holds a PhD in public administration, MA in African History, Masters in Peace, Leadership and Governance, BA Hons in History and Graduate Certificate in Education.

Nomalanga Mpofu-Hamadziripi is an Associate Professor and Director of the Academy of Teaching and Learning at Chinhoyi University of Technology in Zimbabwe. She holds a doctorate in Linguistics from the University of Oslo, Norway. She is a lexicographer and language researcher and has been involved in the research and documentation of Zimbabwean languages, including marginalized/endangered languages and cross border languages. Professor Mpofu-Hamadziripi has co-authored a general purpose monolingual dictionary and a terminological dictionary in Shona. In addition she has published several articles in refereed journals and book chapters on aspects of lexis, translation, lexicography, language, indigenous knowledge and sustainable development.

Albert Mada is the Registrar of the Catholic University of Zimbabwe. He is also a part-time lecturer in the university’s Faculty of Commerce. His research interests include Teaching and Learning, Assessment and Quality Enhancement and Strategic Management.

Believe Mubonderi is a lecturer in the faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at the Catholic University of Zimbabwe. His research interests lie in the areas of African languages development, African History and cultural issues. He has co-authored other publications on African socio-economic and political issues.

Paul Zwenyika Muchena is the National Coordinator for Justice and Peace in Zimbabwe (CCJPZ). His key expertise is in Justice and Peace, Development Management, Conflict Management, Development Policy Analysis and Review. He is a Trainer and Facilitator in various development related issues. He holds the qualifications including: Masters Degree in Educational Administration, Planning and Policy Studies (ZOU), Bachelor of Arts Degree (UZ), Post Graduate Diploma in Project Planning and Management (UZ), Graduate Certificate in Education (UZ), Certificate in Practical Monitoring & Evaluation of Projects (UZ), Certificate in Resource Mobilization & Fundraising for Community Projects (UZ), Executive Certificate in Strategic Project Management (UZ), Advanced Graduate Diploma in Pastoral Care of Human Mobility - Scalabrini International Migration Institute (SIMI) (Rome), Graduate Diploma in Pastoral Care of Human Mobility - Scalabrini International Migration Institute (SIMI) (Rome).

Kudzai Macmillan Muzanago is a part time lecturer at The Catholic University of Zimbabwe in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. His key expertise is in Gender and Livelihoods, Project Management, Migration and Conflict Management.

John Nhavira is a senior lecturer within the faculty of commerce at the University of Zimbabwe. He has specialized in finance and lectures Corporate Governance; Capital Markets; Banking Theory and Practice and Corporate Banking

Aaron Rwodzi is a lecturer in the Department of History (Faculty of Humanities and Social Science) at the Catholic University of Zimbabwe (CUZ). He has chaired the CUZ Research Board since 2015. He is a PhD student at the University of KwaZulu Natal (UKZN). His areas of research interest include, but are not limited to, political and social history, democracy, ethnicity and race and culture. Aaron has a Bachelor of Arts (BA) (General) Degree in History and African Politics from the University of South Africa (UNISA), Special Honours Degree in History from the University of Zimbabwe (UZ) and Master of Arts (MA) Degree in African History (UZ). He holds a Certificate in Education (CE), after training as a secondary school teacher at Hillside Teachers' College in Bulawayo.

Manasa Sibanda is a senior lecturer: specialized in social anthropology and environmental issues in the Faculty of Social Studies, at Great Zimbabwe University. He lectures Environmental Management and Protection as well as Disaster management